

Lean Overview and Workplace Organization | Interactive eLearning

eLearning Course: MXLM100

Amatrol's Lean Overview and Workplace Organization (MXLM100) Lean Manufacturing online training course is an introduction to the 5S (Sort, Straighten, Shine, Standardize, Sustain) principles and how they fit into the workplace. This course grounds learners in pertinent lean manufacturing background and why workplace organization is so critical. Learners gain an understanding of each component of 5S - what each area means, why it is critical, what the requirements are to implement it, the commitment needed to keep it alive, and how it is executed in the workplace.

Teach Lean Manufacturing Skills

Essential Lean Manufacturing Principles Knowledge Connected to Real-World Skills

Amatrol's eLearning curriculum is unique in that it thoughtfully combines in-depth theoretical knowledge with practical, hands-on skills. This powerful combination of knowledge and skills solidifies understanding and creates a strong foundation for pursuing more advanced skills.

For example, the Lean Overview and Workplace Organization eLearning course covers important topics, such as:

Lean Manufacturing and the Toyota Production System (TPS)

Learners will study essential elements and building blocks of the Toyota Production System (TPS), and the similarities and differences of traditional and lean manufacturing methods.

Workplace Organization

Learners study the benefits of workplace organization and visual management tools for the workplace.

The 5S Program

This segment covers the steps of the 5S program: sort, straighten, shine, standardize, sustain.
